GUARD AGAINST DEMONSTRATION IN SUPPORT OF INDIAN NATIONALIST CONGRESS

Bombay, Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—British troops were called out today to prevent an unlawful assembly in observance of "Rashawar day," scheduled to demonstrate in support of the Indian nationalist congress.

The demonstrators were instructed to meet in front of the government secretariat and form a procession to march through the streets of Bombay. Police clashed with native rioters in a united provinces village today with heavy casualties.

Three persons were known dead and 11 were injured when the police opened fire. The natives threw bricks, injuring several policemen.

ASSASSIN STABS TO DEATH FAMILY OF 8, THEN IGNITES HOME

CANADIAN FARMER, WIFE AND SIX CHILDREN KILLED IN THEIR BEDS

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—Apparently murdered in their sleep by an assassin that crept through the shadows of early morning today, Martin Sitar, of Elma, Man., his wife and six children are dead. Two other children, the remainder of the family, are not expected to live.

The victims of the unknown murderer's rage were stabbed through the body, in their beds. Their assailant then set fire to the farmhouse, three miles west of town, as he made his escape. Attracted to the scene by the towering pillar of smoke and flames, John Sitar, who lived on an adjoining farm, rushed to the aid of his brother's family, and was horrified to find that his relatives had been slain before the house had been set on fire.

He managed to drag two of the children from the burning place, but not before they were severely burned. After the two children were removed to neighboring homes for protection from the blizzard which is sweeping the district, hurriedly summoned medical assistance arrived, but the children are suffering from burns and injuries and their lives are despaired of.

Passage Jobless Relief Bill Climaxes Session Marked by 'Duel', Threats

Madison, Wis., Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—An $8,000,000 unemployment relief bill that more than halved Gov. Philip La Follette's original proposal today ended a bitter eight weeks' debate in the Wisconsin legislature climaxed by arrangement of a "duel" and death threat letters.

The relief measure was a compromise between the La Follette progressives and republican regulars. It doubled the normal state income tax but Madison, Wis., Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—Governor Philip F. La Follette today returned $125 from his January salary check to the state treasurer and disclosed that he has reduced his salary voluntarily 20 per cent.

His salary is stipulated by statute at $7,500 a year. His reduction will drop it to $6,000 a year.

"It is purely personal, my own idea," was the only comment La Follette would make.

It did not provide what enemies of the legislation termed confiscatory rates on high incomes.

Coincident with passage of the relief bill the youthful Wisconsin governor, scion of the powerful La Follette "dynasty," affixed his signature to a bill making Wisconsin the first state to adopt unemployment insurance.

In the midst of filibusters against the relief bill Senator Walter Polakowski, Milwaukee socialist, challenged Senator Bernard Gettleman to a duel with boxing gloves. Gettleman accepted on condition the gate receipts go to the relief of the unemployed.

During the prolonged legislative fight, several senators declared they had received threats of death if they voted against the La Follette program. The compromise was finally agreed upon when it was seen that the full progressive plan could not be forced through the senate where regular republicans held a narrow margin.

The doubled tax is effective on 1931 income. The emergency tax is levied on dividends of Wisconsin corporations, hitherto exempt, and prevents deduction of capital losses. The corporation income tax is not increased. A two-year tax on chain stores also was passed.

The chief defeat suffered by the La Follette forces was failure of the governor's announced proposal for redistribution of wealth through heavy taxes on large incomes. His reforestation program was also substantially reduced.

The unemployment insurance plan is voluntary if 175,000 workers are placed within its scope by their employers before June 1, 1933. Otherwise the law becomes compulsory. Only employers contribute to a fund which must equal $75 for each eligible worker. Those earning more than $1,500 a year are ineligible. A maximum of $10 a week for 10 weeks would be paid the jobless.

Hughes was charged with having made a secret profit from deals engineered with funds of two of his clients, Mrs. Amy K. Wheatley and Mrs. Maurice O. Garthart, Mankato.

LIVESTOCK LOSSES HEAVY AS STRANGE AILMENT HITS AREA

VETERINARIANS STUDY MYSTERIOUS MALADY TAKING HEAVY TOLL OF LIVESTOCK DEATHS

Emerson, Minn., Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—A mysterious ailment that has taken a large toll of deaths in livestock of Rock county, Minn., and Lyon county, Iowa, today was being studied by veterinarians who fear a wholesale poisoning outbreak.

Within the past 30 days the toll has mounted until the losses may amount to thousands of dollars, it was said. Horses have succumbed to the disease more easily than cows. One farmer lost six horses within a few weeks.

Some have attributed the loss to too much cornstalk and other roughage without sufficient hay and grain. Symptoms appear identical in all classes. The affected animals become blind and a paralysis sets in and they are unable to eat. Death soon follows.

WHETHER NAME WILL BE ENTERED IN PRIMARY DEPENDS ON CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Minot, N. D., Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—Whether President Hoover's name is on the North Dakota presidential preference primary ballot at the March 15 election will depend solely on the chief executive.

While the "real" Republicans at their meeting here yesterday gave him their support, no efforts were made to obtain signatures to petitions which are necessary before a presidential candidate's name is placed on the ballot. Speakers urged a "strong, united stand against two other factions of the state's split republican party—the 'progressive' Republicans who endorsed former senator J. I. France, of Maryland and the non-partisan element, which refused to announce its support of any candidate at the time of its meeting in Bismarck.

Delegates endorsed William Stern, Fargo, and Mrs. V. E. Stenerson, Minot, as national committeemen and national committeewoman. Their candidacy will be voted upon at the March primary in opposition to endorsements of the non-partisan league group and the newly organized "Progressive" Republicans.

RAIL CONFERENCE RECESSES WITHOUT SOLVING PROBLEM

EXECUTIVES TO MEET AGAIN WITH UNION LEADERS AS SOON AS LATTER ARE READY

BULLETIN!

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—David B. Robertson, spokesman for the railway unions, announced at 2:30 p. m. today that the nine rail presidents had rejected four counter wage proposals advanced by the workers as substitutes for the 10 per cent reduction requested by the railroads.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—The joint conference of railway labor leaders and rail presidents recessed at 11:50 today without reaching agreement on the proposed 10 per cent wage reduction.

"The problem is not settled yet," said Daniel Willard, chairman of the committee of nine railway presidents. "We heard labor's answer to our wage

St. Paul, Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—More than $10,000,000 will be paid from the annual payrolls of the Northwestern railroads if the 10 per cent wage cut voluntarily is accepted by the rail labor unions, it was estimated by railroad officials today.

The cut includes not only wages of union employees but the total payroll. Similar cuts will be enforced all along the line after the unions have agreed to accept reductions, it was said.

On the Great Northern reductions of from 10 to 20 per cent on salaries above $300 monthly have been put into effect while on the Northern Pacific the cut amounts to from 10 to 25 per cent.

proposal and retired for half an hour to consider it. We will meet again with the union groups as soon as they are ready.

Willard said it was possible another joint meeting might be held late today.

Willard said after a 40 minute conference in secret: "The labor groups put before us a suggestion we had never heard before."

He declined to say what the suggestion was or what action had been taken, on it as the railroad president emerged from a half hour conference. It was believed he might have referred to the resolution adopted yesterday by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in which they went on record as favoring "the best agreement possible" to include a 10 per cent wage reduction if necessary.

Armistice Negotiated After Shanghai Mayor Confers With American Consul to Relieve Threatening Situation

BULLETIN!

Washington, Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—The American consulate at Shanghai formally reported this afternoon the arrangement of an armistice between the Japanese and Chinese at Shanghai. The armistice was negotiated, the report said, after Mayor Wu of Shanghai called upon American Consul General Cunningham, saying he was very anxious that something be done to relieve the situation.

By United Press

Warring Japanese and Chinese agreed to an armistice at Shanghai, where Japanese bombardments from the air had jeopardized, to some extent, American property.

Chapel, the Chinese section occupied by Japanese forces, was in danger of destruction from fires ignited by Japanese bombs.

Reports indicated Japanese forces had dealt severely with some of the Chinese in their path, but it was hoped

Washington, Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—The Japanese-Chinese crisis was brought briefly before the house today when Representative Fish, republican, New York, urged passage of his resolution to ban private shipments of munitions from the United States. "I submit to you that we do not want to send arms or munitions to either Japan or China in case of war," he said.

the truce effected might be prolonged to bring peace again to the torn and worried metropolis.

China invoked articles X and XV of the League of Nations covenant today, opening the way for invocation of an economic boycott against Japan while its spokesman demanded action, not words.

Meantime, the United States and Britain joined in making representations to Japan which, it was hoped, would serve to check Japan's action in Shanghai. China invoked the League of Nations' aid for ending the trouble and asked active pressure be brought on Japan.

France and Italy were advised through their ambassadors here of the Anglo-American action. This was regarded as an informal bid for them also to make representations. Secretary Stimson had not been informed as to what action France and Italy will take.

Two hundred Chinese and 30 Japanese have been killed in the Shanghai fighting, Col. R. S. Hooker, commander of the U. S. marine forces at Shanghai, estimated to the navy department in a message timed 8 a. m. Friday, Shanghai time.

A Japanese spokesman said the Shanghai occupation resulted from Chinese attacks on Japanese marines.

Four American destroyers were speeding from Manila to Shanghai, and an order to drydock the flagship Houston at Manila was rescinded, presumably as a precautionary measure.

(Copyright, 1932, by United Press) Shanghai, Jan. 30.—(Saturday)—(U.P.)—An armistice brought at least a temporary lull in the battle of Shanghai this morning, after the Japanese had showered the native city with bombs from the air, causing tremendous destruction and endangering American mission and other property within and without the international settlement.

Truce in Full Effect. The armistice was in full effect at 1 a. m., although there was much skepticism over how long it would last. Authorities of the foreign settlement, within which bombs had been dropped, continued their vigilance and there was much uneasiness, although there was some easing of the tension when reports to the United States consul general of supposed violations of the truce by the Japanese turned out to be less serious than at first believed.

The American property endangered included the Young J. Allen missionary group of buildings in the foreign settlement, the Chenju radio station owned by the Radio Corporation of America and the Chinese, and the Texas Oil company station at Woonung.

The armistice provides for suspension of hostilities, with a final solution left for further discussions.

Defenders Hold Positions. All defenders held to their positions. The tension remained acute but there were signs of relaxation, and it was a question of sitting on the lid and holding tight. The state of emergency was marked by the most cordial Anglo-American relations and unanimity in preserving the settlement's neutrality.

Roosevelt, Jr., Off for Philippines

Famous brother and famous sister are pictured here as Mrs. Alice Longworth, widow of the Speaker of the House, bade goodbye in Washington to Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., before his departure for the Philippine Islands to assume the post of Governor. This is one of the first pictures—if not actually the first—to be taken of Mrs. Longworth since the death of her husband.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—Old time ranchers living in the region of Medora and the Bismarck Chamber of Commerce joined today in an invitation to Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., recently appointed governor general of the Philippines, suggesting that he visit the scenes of the ranching days of his illustrious father.

The retiring governor of Porto Rico has never visited the region where his father was a rancher and cattleman and was known affectionately as "Four Eyes." Roosevelt expressed great interest in North Dakota to the state's representatives at the American Legion convention at Detroit last year.

FARMER, 2 CHILDREN BATTLE FOR LIVES, BURNS FATAL TO WIFE

W. SCHIEVE, CLARISSA FARMER, REPORTED 'HOLDING HIS OWN' TODAY

Bertha, Minn., Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—Physicians today watched a battle for life by W. Schieve, Clarissa Farmer, suffering from critical burns sustained in a fire which cost the life of his wife and severely burned two children.

Schieve was reported to be "holding his own" although in "very critical condition." Mrs. Schieve died late yesterday from burns sustained when a can of kerosene exploded while she was attempting to quicken a fire in the kitchen stove in their home.

The flames also burned two children, Eleanor, 3, and Dorothy, 2. The younger child was suffering as much from exposure as from burns, physicians said. Good hopes were held for the children's recovery.

The four members of the family were helped from their blazing home by a neighbor, James Bain, 24. Two other children were in school at the time of the fire.

Navy Considering Sale of Dirigible Los Angeles

Washington, Jan. 29.—(U.P.)—The navy department is seriously considering selling the dirigible Los Angeles, Commander Garland Fulton, chief naval airship expert, told the house naval affairs committee today.

Fulton said the money derived from sale of the veteran airship would be applied to increasing the size and efficiency of the ZRS-5, sister ship of the dirigible Akron.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION HERE REPORTS FINE YEAR

1931 WAS ONE OF BEST IN ITS HISTORY; OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS REFLECTED

The Brainerd Building and Loan Association enjoyed one of its most prosperous years in 1931, a year when majority of business firms were confronted with serious economic setback.

Such progress was indicated by reports at the ninth annual meeting of the association last evening in the court house. The report of S. R. Adair, president, revealed the progress made by the association during 1931.

All officers were reelected for 1932 as follows:

President—S. R. Adair.
Vice President—Elmer Dahl.
Vice President—John Corison.
Treasurer—Henry Krause.
Secretary—Wm. Nelson.
Attorney—A. J. Sullivan.

Three directors were reelected for three years, E. O. Webb, Henry Krause and S. R. Adair. Other directors are: Elmer Dahl, John Carlson, J. A. Krause, Wm. Nelson, Ray Geist and Dan Crosswell.

Adair's report follows:

"After two years of depression it is a pleasure to be able to report the year 1931, one of the best years in the history of our association.

Our resources have passed the $200,000.00 mark, being $305,232.00—our increased resources for the year are $42,240.71.

Our gross earnings for the year were $20,068.10 and after setting aside 5 per cent for the contingent fund, and paying our stockholders 7 per cent on their holdings, we still have $340.30 undivided profits left over.

We have available for any loss that might accrue $3,399.21, and with our present earnings this amount will increase at the rate of $1000.00 or more per year.

Our association is sound, and our investors, should feel safe and happy.

You have the important duty of electing at this meeting three directors. The terms of the following directors expiring: E. O. Webb, Henry Krause and S. R. Adair.

MANGANESE CLERK SPIKES RUMORS OF STARVING VILLAGE

FEW MEN EMPLOYED BUT WERE NO WORSE OFF THAN OTHER PLACES, FOOTE SAYS

Reports that residents of the village of Manganese were destitute and virtually near starvation were denied today by L. L. Foote, village clerk, interviewed by the Brainerd Daily Dispatch today by telephone.

"Our people, despite shutdowns of mines, are not any worse off than other communities in the county. I am acquainted with all families and I know that none is going hungry. The majority of families here raised garden stuffs last summer and preserved them for winter use. Many have cows. Many of our residents are sporting automobiles. The majority of our citizens have homes of their own and are meeting conditions as well as can be expected. Rumors have been going around the county that Manganese is destitute. They give our village a black eye which is unjust. Financially the village is not prosperous. Many have been unable to meet their taxes but we are not anywhere near the starvation crisis," Foote said.

Foote has been village clerk for the past 11 years. The village is six miles northwest of Crosby.

TOURIST WELCOME, MORE VISITORS BY RAIL PLANNED HERE

LIONS INCREASE YEAR'S WORK; TO REVIVE GLADHANDING CAMPAIGN

A two fold tourist program was added to the Lions club's slate for summer work in plans laid by the local club Wednesday night.

Reviving of the welcoming the tourist campaign will be sought in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce. Personal greetings to tourists as they reach Brainerd will tend to establish a fine contact and cement friendly relations between the city and country and the tourists, members agreed.

The major activities committee of the club was empowered to progress with plans to invite railroad representatives of every railroad in the United States and Canada to come to Brainerd and see at first hand the facilities and attractions the district has to offer the tourist and vacationist.

No definite date for the passenger representatives conference here has been fixed.

The plan has vast possibilities, the speakers asserted, in increasing the flow of tourist traffic to Brainerd via the railroads.

The entertainment of the evening was provided by violin duet, members presented by Frank Perry and Victor Bourgeois, accompanied by Miss Effie Drexler.

After about three hours of riding, the crowd got off at 709 9th avenue, N. E., and were the guests of Miss Irene Krueger for the remainder of the evening. Miss Krueger served a delicious luncheon.

Miss Rogers Becomes Bride Michigan Man

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Miss Cecelia Beatrice Rogers was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Bert Wels. The bride is the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wels, Jr., 712 N. 6th street, in whose home the wedding took place. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wels, Sr., also of Brainerd.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Helen Peters sang a solo, "I Love You Truly." Miss Verla Stearns played Lohengrin's wedding march on the violin.

Attired in a gown of pale, green satin, and carrying a beautiful arm bouquet of Ophelia roses and freesias, Miss

Rogers advanced down the stairs and into the living room on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. The bridal couple and attendants took their places before an altar of roses and growing plants, while Rev. F. A. Kufus, pastor of the Methodist church, read the services.

Miss Marian Maghan, wearing old ivory tulle, was bridesmaid. She carried orchid tulips. Frank Wels, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

At the close of the ceremony, Miss Stearns played "Serenade," from Bach. The parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wels, Jr., entertained at dinner in honor of the newlyweds. Twenty-five immediate relatives and friends were present. Table decorations were carried out in green and white.

The groom is employed in Detroit, Mich., where the pair will make their home after a two months' stay in Brainerd. Mrs. Wels attended Brainerd schools and is well known here.

JURY ACQUITS TWO IN DEER POSSESSION BY TESTIMONY DOG LED MEN TO ANIMALS

A small dog's keenness of the hunt cannot be blamed to its owners, a jury here ruled in acquitting Scott and Charles Mitchell, Swanburg, of having illegal possession of deer.

The dog, testimony of its owners revealed, barked so insistently at two objects in the woods that the men were forced to investigate. They found two deer, slain by bullets, and were standing beside one of the animals when a deputy game warden approached, they said.

The defendants denied they killed the game.

Scott Mitchell described the dog in the following terms:

"He is a small dog of no particular breed. He is not much larger than a lap dog. Just plain dog."

The jury, consisting of Jack Hurley, Ed. Girard, Art Hagberg, Dan Lawrence, Iver Hagen, George Mahood, deliberated the evidence and returned a not guilty verdict at 9:30 p. m. Thursday. The jury was out for 45 minutes.

The trial was heard by Judge J. H. Warner in district court when the municipal court roof proved too small to house the number of people present for the trial.

Deputy Game Warden Phillip Nelson arrested the brothers on January 13 after he came upon them in the woods inspecting a slain deer. Another deer was recovered in the woods, slain 50 yards from the other, Nelson said.

The carcasses of the deer were presented followed by stunts and games in keeping with the occasion—a kiddies' party. Every woman was dressed in a child's costume. First prize was awarded to Mrs. M. E. Ryan, dressed as "Topsy." Mrs. L. J. Mraz was chairman in charge of the party. About 45 attended.

The choir members of St. Paul's Episcopal church gathered at the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Miller, Koop building, and enjoyed a social evening. Mrs. Miller served luncheon at the close.

tered as exhibits by the state.

Nelson testified that he did not hear any shots, explaining that a strong wind might have muffled the sounds. The story of the deer and how Scott and Charles Mitchell happened to be near them when the game warden approached was told identically by the defendants.

Scott Mitchell stated that he and his brother were about four and a half miles from their home when they came upon the deer. They were walking a trap line set for wolves, he said. As they tramped the woods near Wolf lake, their dog began barking and ran to an object partly covered with snow. When the men investigated they found a deer. Later they continued on their way and the dog again led them to another deer that had been killed. This time the brothers investigated the deer more in detail as they had suspicions that the animal had a diseased lung. It was at this time that the game warden appeared, the defendants said.

Scott Mitchell stated that he and his brother carried the deer to the road and put their guns in the back of Nelson's car. Then the game warden told them they were under arrest, Scott said.

Scott stated that the original hearing was set for Jan. 15 at Pequot. A continuance was asked until Jan. 22. At the latter date the charge of killing deer was dismissed by the justice of the peace. Later the state amended the complaint and served the defendants with warrants to appear for trial at Brainerd, Scott said.

LABOR UNIONS--

The best bulwark against such destructive forces as Communism and Fascism, says President Charles P. Howard of the International Typographical Union, is in sound and healthy organized labor unions.

Mr. Howard neatly proves his case by pointing out that no member of his union has been dependent on public charity during the depression, and by adding that the union has spent $4,000,000 on relief work among its members, has spent over $500,000 in death benefits during the past year and has resorted working time in order to provide opportunities for work among its members.

All of this indicates pretty clearly that Mr. Howard knows exactly what he is talking about; and it should make interesting reading for some of the patriotic industrialists who assail radicalism with one hand and fight for the open shop with the other.

A DELICATE SITUATION--

The heavy responsibility that sometimes rests on diplomatic and naval officials in far-off places was seldom better illustrated than when the Japanese recently rattled their sabres in Shanghai.

American naval officers and consular officials there were in a rather ticklish spot. At any moment, any one of them might be confronted with a crisis that would call for clear thinking and unemotional judgment. To make the wrong decision might easily mean involving the United States in more trouble than it could get out of in a month.

You need only imagine the repercussions that would ensue if a Japanese patrol happened to clash with an American naval detachment, for instance, to see the possibilities. Those representatives of ours in the far east, by a little foolishness or excitability, could cause a terrific fuss. Their responsibility in times like these is a heavy one.

RETRIEVING OUR ERRORS--

Although you may never have known it, there is a painter named Chuzo Tamotzu, a young Japanese, and he is about to make an exceedingly interesting and unusual trip around the world.

During the last dozen years, he says, he has painted a great many pictures. Some of these he has sold; others, at one time or another, he has exchanged for food and lodging. And now that he has gained recognition as a genuinely fine artist, it plagues him to think how poor some of those paintings were.

So he is going to go about the world, looking up the owners of those earlier pictures and buying the pictures back again—giving, in exchange for them, new and better pictures; because, he says, the old ones weren't much good, and he hates to think that he is responsible for the presence, in so many quarters of the globe, of so much mediocre art.

Now you could moralize in any one of several directions on this odd little tale. You could talk about the artist's conscience, about the Japanese conception of personal honor, and so on; but the thing most of us will think of first is, "How lucky that painter is!"

For all of us have our mistakes scattered here and there about the world; jobs we have botched, efforts that were second-rate, flat failures that we had to try to pass off as good stuff. But they don't stay put, as paintings do, and we can't go around, years later, and collect them, substituting first-rate jobs in their place.

So this painter must emphatically have the bulge on us. Turn a bad painting loose into the world and you can eventually take it back and hide it in your garret. But a bit of stupidity, a bit of malice, a bit of dishonesty—you can never make up for it.

Instead of staying put, as a painting does, these mistakes keep on working. They grow, and give birth to all kinds of unexpected consequences. And if, like this painter, we later grow conscience-stricken—all we can do is worry about it. Our bad jobs can't be undone.

MEMORIES IN KEEPSAKES--

Buried treasure is usually a cache of gold, silver or precious stones. But excavators who were preparing a site for a new art museum in Portland, Ore., the other day turned up treasure trove of a different kind—some mouldy old chests that had been buried 50 years ago by members of a high school graduating class beneath a tree that the graduates had planted.

When the chests were opened, a revealing light was thrown on the kind of things, valueless in themselves, that people can prize—especially young people.

There were, for instance, a little blue vase, a tiny cup and saucer, a little locket containing a lock of someone's brown hair, a small model of the ship Constitution, a marble, a miniature horseshoe, a handful of old coins, a newspaper of the year 1882—and so on, through a long list of little trinkets each one of which had its own significance, its own value, when the chest was buried 50 years ago.

It isn't hard to imagine just how gladly the people who buried those things would reclaim them now. After half a century the commonest object can take on deep meaning. That locket with its wisp of hair, for instance; what gawky high school lad, prizing his keepsake from the world's sweetest girl, put it there? And where is he now? Did he marry her—or did each forget the other before two more years had passed?

Most of us, probably, have a secret store of odds and ends of that kind, things that would look very odd and grotesque, if anyone else saw them, but that we ourselves cherish deeply. There is usually a faded dance program or two, a sheaf of crumbling snapshots—containing, always, pictures of one or two people whose very names we have forgotten—an oddly-colored pebble that commemorates some summer day's stroll along a lake, some yellowed theater stubs; and to no one but ourselves would the collection mean anything.

But each of us has to fight his own battle with time, which devours youth and hope; and with our oddments of keepsakes—like those unearthed in Oregon—we keep old memories alive.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE

BY KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

© 1931, by Doubleday, Doran and Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANN and CECILY FENWICK have for years supported themselves, their younger sister, MARY-FRANCES, and their grandparents, known as "GRAND" and "GRANDMA." Because of this financial responsibility, Ann, who is 28, is unable to marry PHIL ROYD, young lawyer to whom she has been engaged for eight years. Cecily, 22, loves EARL MOORE, an engineer, but when he proposes she refuses to name their wedding date for the same reason. Ann, still in school, strikes up an acquaintance with EARL DEAMONT, vaudeville actor, and meets him secretly. He tries to persuade her to become his stage partner.

Ann and Phil quarrel when she hears LETTY KING, who works in Phil's office building, address him with endearments. Ann tries to forget Phil by going around with KENNETH SMITH, rich and attentive. Cecily is disturbed when she learns Barry has left town without telling her about it.

MARY-FRANCES falls in an examination and promises to marry EARL DEAMONT, who is in the army. Next morning Cecily sees Barry outside the house in his car, and, against her grandfather's command, rushes out to meet him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVIII

BARRY came to meet her, but this morning he did not ask whether he looked pretty, and that was fortunate, because he looked frightful. He looked white, and unpressed, and unshaven, and tired, and cross. He did not take her hands. He hung his own at his sides, as if they were pounds too heavy to lift, and they pulled his shoulders down and forward.

He said, "I've been driving all night, trying to get away from you."

She said, "Grand is coming. He'll make a scene. Let's go—anywhere."

As she stepped into the car one of the mules dropped off. Barry stooped to pick it up, and she said, "Hurry."

WHAT made Grand so hopping mad was that he could not recall a single speech of Lear's. To have been a lover, nay, more than a mere lover, a student, a disciple of the Immortal Bard's for a lifetime, and then in a crisis to have it all come to naught, was hard, very hard. True, the blow, blow, thou winter wind, was ready to hand; but in his opinion the Heigh-ho! section, directly counter to his own philosophy, all but ruined the song. Nor had he been able, ever, to give his entire approval to Rosalind. So he had to be content with moaning, again, to Ann, "She struck me down. Our little Cecily turned and struck me down," and let it go at that.

Ann knew better; but since she had not seen anything except Cecily running out of doors in her bathrobe, all she could say was, "But, Grand dear, she didn't mean to."

For the first time that morning Ann thought, "Cissy shouldn't have." To Mary-Frances she said, "Honey, all families have little fuses sometimes, and the only thing to do is forget all about them. Cissy will come home and be sorry, and by this time tomorrow everything will be as it has always been. Run along, now, if you've eaten your breakfast, and look over your notebooks. Your history examination is a thousand times more important than this little affair."

"Would it be all right, then," asked Mary-Frances, "for me to go to Ermintrude's for dinner this evening and stay all night?"

"Surely, dear. That will be fine. And you and Ermintrude can study together for your English examination tomorrow."

Mrs. Hill would see to it that they studied, during examination week. If Cissy shouldn't come home until afternoon, and if there should be another scene—perhaps at dinner—Mary-Frances would know nothing and leave him moaning on the horse-hair sofa in the parlor while she went to telephone for the neighborhood doctor. Grand had been positive that he could not live until Dr. Elm could come from across the river.

Mary-Frances, two big frightened eyes beside the telephone, whimpered as Ann hung up the receiver. "Ann, did Grand say she could never darken his door again? Did he, Ann?"

"Silly!" said Ann. "Of course not. Run on and see what you can do about breakfast. That's sister's baby. Everything will be all right."

Young Dr. Selberg and his bedside manner arrived together. After a dignified and deliberate examination he reluctantly gave out the news that, though Mr. Fenwick was suffering from shock, he seemed to have sustained no fractures, abrasions, contusions, or lacerations. It was to be considered a case that the negative did not help much.

Rosalie continued rocking and weeping; and Mary-Frances, poking about the kitchen after eavesdropping at Grand's door, asked in a choked voice, when Ann came, "Will he die?" And, reassured, "Will Cissy ever dare come home again?"

"Of course, dear. Cissy didn't mean to hurt him. She's not to blame. She wouldn't have hurt him for the world—and he isn't hurt a lot. Except his feelings. She'll be home before long and tell him she didn't mean to, and that she's sorry, and everything will be all right. Don't worry any more about it. Your history examination is today, isn't it?"

"History..." said Mary-Frances vaguely. Not since yesterday afternoon had she considered any history other than that which she and Earl were going to make together. Omissions...

For the first time that morning Ann thought, "Cissy shouldn't have." To Mary-Frances she said, "Honey, all families have little fuses sometimes, and the only thing to do is forget all about them. Cissy will come home and be sorry, and by this time tomorrow everything will be as it has always been. Run along, now, if you've eaten your breakfast, and look over your notebooks. Your history examination is a thousand times more important than this little affair."

"Would it be all right, then," asked Mary-Frances, "for me to go to Ermintrude's for dinner this evening and stay all night?"

Mrs. Hill would see to it that they studied, during examination week. If Cissy shouldn't come home until afternoon, and if there should be another scene—perhaps at dinner—Mary-Frances would know nothing about it.

Mary-Frances hesitated, hung around. "I guess I'll kiss you good-by, Ann, angel."

"Sister's baby," said Ann, and hugged her. "Don't you worry any more now, will you, precious?"

"No," said Mary-Frances, and snuggled. "I love you, Ann. I love you and Cissy and Grand and Rosalie. I love you all, Ann."

"Of course," said Ann, trying to make it light and matter-of-fact at the same time. "Everybody loves everybody around here. Run along now, dear, and get to your studying."

MARY-FRANCES went as far as the door. "You'll remember that, won't you, Ann, angel? If anything should happen, or anything, I mean. And you'll love me, too?"

Ann repressed a sigh, refused to bow herself to shake her head. Of course, Mary-Frances. But don't be silly. What could happen?

"Like," said Mary-Frances, "well—like if I should flunk in my exams or anything?"

"You aren't going to flunk."

"I mean—if I should." She came back to Ann. "I'll kiss you good-by again, I guess. Will you and Cissy love me if I flunk?"

"Dear, listen to me. You are talking very foolishly. You aren't going to fail in your examinations. But, if you should, that wouldn't make any difference in our love for you. We'd be sorry and very much disappointed, but we'd love you just the same. Nothing you could do would make any difference in our love for you. But you must try hard, so that we can be proud of you as well as love you. You will, won't you?"

"I expect," sighed Mary-Frances, "that you'll all be proud of me sometime. Oh, yes—I expect you'll be proud, all right, if that's what you want to be."

"That's the way to talk, honey," Ann approved. But she returned to the dishpan with some small worries concerning Mary-Frances. Of late she was so odd. The little Hill girl seemed like a nice little girl, and Mr. and Mrs. Hill were fine sensible people—only, Mary-Frances had never used to be so odd. Perhaps, during the summer, she and Cecily could encourage some new friendships for Mary-Frances.

Rosalie tiptoed into the kitchen. "He has forgiven her fully and freely and from his heart. It was his desire that I should come and tell you."

"That's good," said Ann briskly; far too briskly.

"Ann," breathed Rosalie, as Mary-Frances might have breathed it, "isn't he wonderful?"

"Indeed he is," said Ann promptly.

APPLE SAUCE!

Smith that afternoon, in Ann's quiet office. "Solitaire? My aunt's eye! Be yourself, Ann. I'll tell you what it is, it's poker. Yeah, poker," he finished firmly.

"Poker," Ann reminded him, "is a man's game."

"Women can play," he grinned, "but most of 'em aren't so hot at it. They overbet their hands. They cheer when they get a good hand and holler when they get a bum one. They can't bluff—much. They can't remember that four aces beats a full house. They'll discard a pair and draw to a flush every time, and they'll bet a four flush as high as a good one. They throw away their openers. They hate to ante. That's the trouble with you, Ann. You won't ante. You have to get in the game before you can draw cards. You won't get in the game. You won't play. Now, listen, Ann..."

Ann did not listen, very attentively. She seldom listened to Kenny. She merely allowed him to rattle along and along, and so found a panacea for loneliness.

It was after three o'clock. She was beginning to worry seriously about Cecily. All day she had been expecting a telephone call from her, but none had come. Surely the child wouldn't go home and dress without calling her. Surely the child wouldn't stay out all day in her bathrobe and slippers. Surely the child—

"That's all I want, Ann. I wouldn't ask for a thing on earth but to be good to you and make you happy. I want to buy things for you—houses and cars and diamonds and things. I want to take you places and watch my wife knock 'em dead. I want to see you wearing black velvet and diamonds, and white satin and pearls."

THE OPEN FORUM

Editor of the Daily Dispatch:

Since the world war, the federal government officials have been running wild in their expenditures. They have been spending money like a house of drunken sailors. During and following the world war, or conflict, they handed out millions of dollars with the reckless abandon which we would pass out 5 cent pieces. And now, the day of suffering has come. The debts must be paid, and the average legislator knows only one way of raising more money, and that is to increase the taxes. As recorded on the present schedule our business has been taxed almost beyond endurance for some time and business is now to be throttled for years to come for the purpose of paying these wanton expenditures that have been indulged in by the federal government. Everybody is to be taxed except the bootleggers and other favored industries.

It is an outrage to think that the honest citizens of our great country must dig down in their pocket and pay out their hard-earned money while the liquor racketeers roll in their ill gotten wealth. There is the only thing that Congress will do, listen to, and that is a universal demand from their constituents. The larger part of the two billions or more that will have to be added to our taxes that could be raised from the liquor industry. If the bootleggers' profits could be confiscated, or if this idiotic prohibition law could be repealed, then there would be no need for our paying more taxes.

At the present time we are paying huge sums of money. Yes, millions upon millions to enforce the law that every intelligent citizen of this country knows can not be enforced. It is rumored everywhere—at this time that the prohibition worker at this time are securing their principal support from the bootleggers. It is even rumored everywhere at this time that some wet legislators are being paid huge sums of money to continue to vote dry. Whether or not there is any truth in these sensational charges, something should be done to stop the monumental waste that still continues in our federal government, and to place the tax that must be levied where it will not restrict and hamper legitimate business.

The present situation calls for drastic action. The people of this country should as a unit demand definite reforms. Levying of taxes upon the liquor interests.

Whether or not the prohibition law is annulled, if the bootleggers' profits are taxed or confiscated, increased taxes may not be required.

If there is one atom of the old time American spirit left in this country, this situation ought to stir us into action.

Let us all call a mass meeting in our city, let's arouse the Chamber of Commerce, the city council, the county board and make them help us to rouse the people into making a demand for congressional action; let's ask our main local newspapers to awaken to this truly serious emergency which we are all facing; let's pass a resolution at everyone of these meetings and send it to our Congressman Knutson; make a demand for a procedure of some sort that will squeeze the money for extra taxation out of the liquor industry; how it is done is not so important.

But it should be and must be done. But, if we stand by and watch this robbery of the people this wholesale increase of taxes merely because the country has to support a lot of racketeering whiskeydealers I think we have lost all our old time American spirit. I think we are just a lot of durb brutes, saying nothing, doing nothing while our pockets are being picked; our hard earned wealth is being slowly dissipated and wrung from us, because of our unwillingness to make a spirited and determined demand for a tax adjustment where it properly belongs—to the bootlegging industry. It brings to mind: some time ago I read an article in one of the Minneapolis papers that Senator Brookhart of Iowa said the jails are only built for a poor man, not for the rich. I happen to do some repair work here in Brainerd for a rich man in the basement and I found two cases of beer, one case of Kentucky whiskey and I know he always votes dry but drinks wet. What would George Washington or Abraham Lincoln say if they would come back again? Washington would say: "Where is my farewell address? Didn't I say don't get mixed up with no other country," and Lincoln would say: "Didn't I say that this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people by the people for the people shall not perish from the earth." Is it a government by the people now? I'll say it's not.

not. Only a government for the rich. Minnesota has two of the poorest United States senators in the country. Senator Shipstead has been in congress for the last 15 years. What did he do for Minnesota and what did Schall do? They are only good to draw a thousand dollars a month. I will give any man or woman $1,000 of they can show me one rich man in jail with a poor man.

Respectfully,
ALL SUNDQUIST

To the Editor of Daily Dispatch:
And baseball fans, another article in your paper last night agitating a ball park in Lum park.

I have lived on Ash avenue, near Lum park nearly 14 years, am therefore quite well acquainted with this "would be" ball park. Some time ago when this swamp was given to our park board, they had the small brush and timber cut out, I was asked on several occasions to haul this wood out, but never could do it; same always being too wet and soft, (the land, not the wood) and finally was carried out or burned—a fine location for a ball park, this tamarack swamp.

Last night's writup says the land has been given, if so what have you got, can you take that 4 or 5 feet of muck out of there and then fill in with solid earth, like the highway department did to build through there?

Your article also states, the community board, has put men to work already clearing this swamp off. Now maybe they have, and if so, they sank immediately, or quickly, for nothing has been done so far, about the ground where people can go sometime and see a ball game, even if the dew is heavy the night before.

There sure are enough people in Brainerd that saw the flop at the fill-work, waste time, labor, money, trouble, and general dissatisfaction. Why do it all over again? Put the ball park where people can go sometime and see a ball game, even if the dew is heavy the night before.

Now the fence, a canvas fence. Who stole the fence and grandstand at Little Falls? I don't know, but a lot of Brainerd fans have helped pay for them.

The park board has given you this land. Is it worth anymore than if you paid for it?

WARRIORS NEED WIN FROM AITKIN; LOSS TO PROVE HANDICAP

STANDING OF TEAM IN TOURNAMENT SERIOUSLY AFFECTED BY REMAINING GAMES

Brainerd's high school Warriors will battle for their parents, their school and to improve their percentage in the district conference game ending in the headline event with Aitkin here tonight. Doors will be open at 6:45 p. m.

Arranged as "Parents' Night," fathers and mothers of every high school student have been invited to attend. Parents of the players will be guests of the players and the school. In several cases entire families will attend in groups.

In every way tonight's main event should be exciting. Brainerd's three defeats at the hands of conference rivals have placed the team in an uphill fight for a position of advantage at the close of the conference season. Brainerd will be required to better than hold its own in the next six conference games. Defeats may affect Brainerd's position in the district tournament. At the present time the team ranks 500 per cent in the league standing. More successful play with out of the district teams, Brainerd has defeated Moorhead, Bemidji, Valley City and Fargo this season.

Brainerd will concentrate on winning tonight's games. The second teams of Brainerd and Aitkin see action at 8 p. m. with the conference teams battling at 8 p. m.

Aitkin comes to Brainerd with an unusually strong threat, one that will cause worry to opposing teams in the district tournament—a team that previously this season defeated the Warriors.

The game will be interesting from the point of watching the relative strength of each. All district teams are virtually near the peak of their strength and all conference games remaining will be watched intently as an indication of competition in the tournament, March 4, 5 here.

Two conference threats, Little Falls and Wadena will be seen in action here Saturday night in a game at 9 o'clock preceded by a preliminary between Brainerd and Riverton.

The visiting teams booked the game on the Brainerd floor to settle their season's rivalry on a neutral floor.

All teams in the district will conclude their schedules next month with a rest period of a week before the district tournament.

Brainerd will engage in the following games in February: Feb. 5, Staples here; Feb. 5, Peabody, there (second team); Feb. 10, Pine River, here; Feb. 12, Bemidji, there; Feb. 16, Little Falls, here; Feb. 19, Wadena, here; Feb. 26, Crosby-Ironton, there.

Stribling Agrees on Feb. 26 for Bout With Ernie Schaaf

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Young Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, has agreed to February 26 as a date for his 10-round bout with Ernie Schaaf, Boston, in the Chicago stadium. The bout was scheduled last December, but postponed when Stribling hurt his hand.

Record Crowd Sees Flyers' Winning Streak Snapped

St. Louis, Jan. 29.—(UP)—A 1 to 1 tie between the Buffalo Majors and St. Louis Flyers, resulted in stopping the St. Louisians winning streak before the largest crowd to see a hockey game in the American Hockey league last night. The 14,000 people saw the Flyers and Majors battle for two extra periods. The result of last night's game does not count in the league tabulation, leaving the Flyers with a one game hold on second.

REDS NEED BATTING POWER TO FORGE AHEAD IN RACE FOR N. L. HONORS

New York, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Manager Dan Howley of Cincinnati has at least one consolation thought—his team can't do any worse in 1932 than it did in 1931.

The Reds stand a good chance to do better. Their crying need is batting power.

Last year the Reds finished a poor eighth despite excellent pitching and fast fielding. They were woefully weak at the plate with Harvey Hendrick, first baseman acquired from Brooklyn in mid-season, furnishing most of what little batting punch they had. Hendrick will be back on the job this coming season with a stronger supporting cast.

Howley has strengthened his outfield considerably. Taylor Douthett will be back in center, flanked by Wally Roettger, secured from the St. Louis Cardinals, and Estel Crabtree, who showed much promise last year—his first full season in the majors. Roettger should increase the Reds' attack considerably.

Harry Heimann, who was out of the game in 1931 with arthritis, will be available for part time duty in the garden and pinch hitting. Heimann is getting old but still retains the batting eye that won him fame while with Detroit.

Cliff Heathcote and Gene Moore, who was recalled from Louisville, are the other outfielders on the roster.

Back on Catalina Island, and the guest of his former boss, William Wrigley, Jr., our old friend Grover Alexander, above, is golfing his way into shape for a professional baseball comeback.

MICHIGAN TOPPLES OHIO STATE 38-25

Columbus, O., Jan. 29.—(UP)—The University of Michigan held fourth place in the Big Ten basketball race today by virtue of a 38-25 defeat of Ohio State last night.

Michigan ran up a 19-7 lead in the first 15 minutes of play and at no time did Ohio State threaten their commanding position. The half-time score was 21-14. Captain Norman Daniels of Michigan led his scoring with 10 points. Joe Hoefler, Ohio State forward, scored eight points.

Until last Saturday night Ohio State had been tied for the conference lead. The defeat put them in fifth place.

Major League Tabs

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Harry Rice, Oriole outfielder, has been sold to Minneapolis of the American Association, George Weiss, owner of the Orioles announced today. He said it was a straight cash deal but did not reveal the amount involved.

Rice joined the Orioles in July and played 29 games, batting .287. His arm was injured in a baseball throwing contest, and he was out of the game during the last two weeks of the season.

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Bill Walker, New York Giants' southpaw, has forwarded his signed 1932 contract to the National league club, he announced at his home here. Walker did not reveal the terms, but said he had been given an increase over 1931.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(UP)—The first squad of Chicago Cubs, which will include every youngster on the roster, will depart for the Catalina Island training camp two weeks from tomorrow. The rookies will have 10 days of work before the regulars arrive, inaugurating a new training plan devised by Manager Rogers Hornsby.

Howley probably will line his infield up with Hendrick at first, Tony Cuccinello at second, Joe Stripp at third and Joe Morrissey, purchased from St. Paul, at shortstop. Morrissey batted .331 last year and is regarded as sure major league timber.

Andy High, who was cast adrift by the St. Louis Cardinals, Minor Heath, Leo Durocher, and Horace Ford form a good quartet of reserves, although they lack hitting power. Otto K. Bluege, purchased from Quincy, is the only rookie infielder on the roster besides Morrissey.

Clyde Sukeforth and Robert Asby probably will handle most of the catching with Clyde Manion, drafted from Milwaukee, the third man. Manion, who batted .353 last year, is expected to beat William Styles, a veteran, out of the berth. Howley will have 10 veteran pitchers headed by Red Lucas and Silas Johnson. The others are Eppa Rixey, Larry Benton, Ray Kolp, John Ogden, Benny Frey, Owen Carroll, Strelecki and Harlan Wyson.

The Reds have added six rookie hurlers but only one of them, Oliver Eckart, purchased from Quincy, is expected to stay.

The others are Walter Hicher and Elmer Jennings, both purchased from Peoria; John Smith, purchased from Davenport; Dale Mills, purchased from Bartlesville, and Albert Eckert, recalled from Columbia.

BATTALINO FINED $5,000, SUSPENDED FOR MILLER BOUT

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Because Christopher "Bat" Battalino, former featherweight champion, was accused of singing "I Surrender Dear" to his former stablemate, Freddie Miller, during their "world title" skit at the music hall here Wednesday night, Battalino must pay a $5,000 fine and is under indefinite suspension.

After a long executive session, the Cincinnati boxing commission last night slapped the $5,000 fine on Bat and suspended him. The commission pointed out the fine would be used to reimburse the customers who had purchased tickets for the burlesque in which Battalino, one of the toughest men in the ring, hit the canvas three times.

Referee Bauman declared at the commission meeting that Battalino had gone down only once from a blow, and that he had fallen twice without provocation. Miller was given a clean bill of health, and will receive his purse for the three rounds of the scheduled 10-round.

Battalino lost his title Wednesday afternoon when he failed to scale down to 126 pounds for the fight. He also lost a $1,000 guarantee that he would make the weight. Boxing association's recognition as featherweight champion, if Bat had not folded up too quickly.

Pirates Buy Swift; Send Blues Two Players

Pittsburgh, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Pitcher William Swift of the Kansas City club of the American Association has been bought by the Pittsburgh club of the National league, it was announced today.

The Pirates gave Edward Phillips and pitcher Bob Osborn a sum of money for Swift.

Swift is regarded as one of the best prospects in the Association. He won 16 and lost 7 games last season. He is 6 feet 1-2 inches tall and weighs 190 pounds. Phillips came to the Pirates from the Philadelphia Athletics and Osborn from the Chicago Cubs.

Ironton Puck Chasers Defeat Nisswa, 11-1

The Ironton Rangers' hockey team won in a speedy game with Nisswa on Sunday, making eleven goals to Nisswa's one. A return game will be played on the Ironton rink January 31.

The range team included Louis Erickson and John Johnson, defense men; Al Danarea, goalie and the forward lines made up of Jack Sealland, Walter Radosevick, Bill Carr, Roy Johnson, Cliff Blom and Jalmer Martinson.

Stars on the Nisswa team were the Anderson brothers, who played a real defense game.

The Ironton team, who were defeated by the Brainerd hockey players, expect to play a return game with them soon.

COURTESY TO CAGE OFFICIALS—

Loyalty to one's favorite basketball team, such as is displayed by Brainerd fans, is fine but when spectators permit their enthusiasm to carry them away to the point that when anything goes against their team they berate referee and other officials, it is deplorable. Of course, it is only natural that someone be made the target of their spontaneous blasts, but why make the referee the "goat?"

School officials in charge make every effort to obtain capable and efficient officials. In fact, Brainerd has been particularly fortunate this season in the caliber of officiating fans have been privileged to see. But, it has become more or less of a habit to direct offensive bickerings at the referee in games that are particularly close.

The average fan knows little about the fine points of basketball. It is impossible for him or her to comprehend or interpret every move of the official and it is highly probable that, in most cases, when a foul is called fans do not know what violation was made.

If fans could curb their enthusiasm for harassing the referee it would help greatly toward making the sport far more respectable. Mind you, we do not mean to halt that fine sense of loyalty to the team that is so characteristic of Brainerd fans. But, if we must give vent to our voices, let's confine ourselves to cheering and not booing.

WELTER CROWNBACK COMMANDERY HOLDS TO FIELDS IN WIN INSPECTION HERE; OVER BROUILLARD NOTABLES ATTEND

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(UP)—The world's welterweight boxing championship was back in the possession today of Jackie Fields, Los Angeles, who wrested the title from Lou Brouillard, Worcester, Mass., in a 10-round bout before 11,203 persons in the Chicago stadium last night. The gate receipts were $28,270.24.

Fields, who was born Jacob Finkelstein in Chicago 25 years ago, regained the title a year and 8 months after he lost it to Jack Thompson in May, 1930. Fields first won the title from Joe Dundee on a foul at Detroit in July, 1929, and held it for 9½ months before losing it to Thompson, whom he had twice beaten before becoming champion.

By winning the unanimous decision of Referee Dave Barry and the two judges, Fields became the fifth welterweight champion to regain the 147-pound crown. Mysterious Billy Smith did it in 1898, Rube Ferns in 1900, Jack Britton in 1919 and Jack Thompson in 1931.

Brouillard, who won the title from Jack Thompson, held it only 3 months and 4 days, losing in his first attempt to defend it. In defeat Brouillard proved his courage by fighting his best after Fields had hurt him with several right hooks to the head in the sixth round.

Brainerd Minister Christens Triplets

The triplets whose arrival caused considerable excitement in Ironton early this month, were christened last Sunday, at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Haugen, of Ironton. Rev. August Samuelson, Lutheran minister of Brainerd, conducted the ceremonies. The three will bear the names of Harley John, Harold Arthur and Harvey Haugen.

Friends of the family in Ironton and Crosby met at the Ironton village hall for a shower for the new arrivals, and many gifts were received. Dr. Shannon, physician in charge of the case and to most as proud of the triplets as their own parents, opened a bank account for his little patients, and many other friends have contributed to their happiness.
